Embrace Differences

 What are the subjects covered in Global Liberal Arts Courses?

All the sessions are taught in English and cover some of the most imminent topics in today's world, including gender issues, diversity, health, poverty and GX (green transformation). These interactive classes include activities such as group discussions, with a maximum of 20 participants to promote interactive learning. We offer a diverse range of 24 courses in the 2023 A Semester, delivered in Hongo, Komaba, and online, covering various topics.

- The Meaning of Language in the Age of AI
- Racial and Linguistic Diversity and Inclusion
- Writing About Gaming: Game Studies as Social Practice
- Model Organisms in Biomedical Research
- A Critical History of Terrorism and more!

 Who can take Global Liberal Arts Courses?

They are open to all 3rd & 4th-year undergraduate students, graduate students, as well as exchange students including USTEP students. Eligibility is extended to 2nd-year students in the 4th semester. We offer an expanding range of courses, not only at Hongo, Komaba, and online, but also through intensive courses during the spring holidays!

 Do I have to be very good at English?

Global Liberal Arts Courses are open to all students who are motivated to improve their ability to express their ideas. Students who do not feel confident about English and wish to improve their proficiency are welcome to register!

 Can I count Global Liberal Arts Courses towards my graduation requirements?

The inclusion of credits earned in Global Liberal Arts Courses as part of your graduation requirements depends on the regulations of each college, faculty or graduate school. The handling of these credits may vary, so it is important to consult with the academic affairs office of your respective college, faculty or graduate school before enrolling in such courses.

The course list for 2023 A Semester is available on our website (see QR code). Please check the syllabi from UTAS after late August.
