

GO MOVIE & LECTURE

Wed.
January 15th
16:30~18:00

VENUE:
21 KOMCEE B1
MM Hall

LANGUAGE: ENGLISH

What is the GO
Movie & Lecture series?

Interactive lectures conducted by our international faculty members to discuss their homeland, using movies (films,
documentaries, TV shows, etc.) and other visual materials.

Globalization
Office

Mojave desert

Downtown

Thirsty Los Angeles

Lecturer:

Prof. Jeong Chang
(From the United States)

Movie selected for the lecture

"Chinatown" (1973)

This film is set in Los Angeles during the 1930s, when waves of new immigrants were moving into the city. Since Southern California includes much desert, the shortage of water became a serious problem, turning its supply into a crucial political and economic issue. In this lecture, a brief history of California will be given, particularly with reference to the water shortage problem, a topic still important today not only in California but throughout the world as well.

※We recommend you watch the film before attending the lecture.